Quisling Must Pay Heavily For His Numerous Crimes

Guilty Traitor To Die Unless Held For Other Trials

Norway's Arch Conspirator Will Face Firing Squad Within Next Three Weeks

MADE DRAMATIC PLEA

London, Sept. 10.—(A)—The radio announced today that Quisling had been convicted of charges of high treason and sentenced to death. The pronouncing of the sentence by the court that tried Quisling for cooperation with the Germans during the occupation of Norway is broadcast direct from the courtroom. Under the new law legalizing the death penalty in Norway, the sentence will be executed by a military firing squad composed of 10 soldiers firing 10 bullets. Under the law Quisling can appeal to the supreme court which can commute the sentence but cannot reverse it. The presiding judge at Quisling's trial, however, was Erik Lem who also is a supreme court justice and thus one of the group which would pass on any appeal. Unless Quisling is held for purposes of giving evidence in other crimes cases, it is likely the execution will be carried out within three weeks. Quisling, 58, was major in Norway's pre-war army and a former defense minister. The prosecution during the three weeks trial accused him of meeting Hitler, and Admiral Erich Raeder and other high German officials in September, 1939, and urging them to invade Norway. He was charged with turning over Norwegian defense data to the Germans, and on the day of invasion, April 9, 1940, it was charged he went to the government offices and personally telephoned certain garrisons and gave (Turn to Page Seven)

Polio Situation About Normal

Harrisburg, Sept. 10.—(A)—The state department of health said today that 326 cases of infantile paralysis have been reported in the state but added the figure was "not extreme." "While the figure is twice that expected in a normal year, we did not expect a normal year," said Dr. J. Moore Campbell, deputy secretary of health, pointing out that 1944 was a "bad" year with 1,417 cases and that the number of cases is larger than normal in the year following an epidemic year.

TRUCKER DIES OF GASOLINE BLAZE BURNS

Driver of Emblem Oil Company Tanker Passes Away In Corry Hospital Saturday Morning

ANOTHER ALSO BURNED

Continuing investigation by officials of the Emblem Oil Company and the Pennsylvania State Police has as yet cast no light on the cause of the explosion which claimed the life of one Warren man and seriously injured another about two o'clock Saturday morning at the North Corry bulk station of the local firm. Roy F. Felton, Sr., aged 50 years, of 906 Fourth avenue, was so severely burned over his entire body that he succumbed to his injuries at 10:30 a. m. Saturday in the Corry Hospital. Henry E. White, 30, helper on the tank truck being operated by Felton, was severely burned about the hands, forearms, face and back, but is reported considerably improved today. Questioned this morning concerning varying estimates of damage resulting from the series of explosions and fire, Emblem officials stated the loss will reach an estimated $10,000 to $12,000, much lower than figures originally given out. Several theories have been advanced concerning the cause of the tragedy, but nothing definite has been learned or is expected until it is possible to question young White. The tank truck had left Warren only a short time before the accident and it is believed both men were standing near the machine, if not seated in it, after completing their task of unloading. Among the first to reach the scene were Frank Whiteley and George B. Chase, who live nearby and who took the victims to the hospital. When fire departments from both the First and Second ward stations reached the scene, the tank truck was a mass of flames and the fire soon spread to the vapor being vented from the storage tanks. Fire Chief Andrew Paulson and his men were highly commended for their efficient handling of the fire. Dispatch of a fireman from Warren was at first considered, but the methods adopted by the Corry department proved so successful that this plan was almost instantly discarded. Four lines of hose were laid to the scene, two from considerable distance. The first line in operation was directed against the cab of the truck until it was made certain that the driver and helper had not been trapped inside. As the storage tanks began to give off great sheets of flame from top vents, firemen crisscrossed the line of water and after a series of four blasts succeeded in choking off and smothering the flames from one tank. The same procedure finally conquered flames billowing above a second tank. Had these filled tanks exploded the results would have reached catastrophic proportions, according to the police and fire officials. A residence adjoining the storage property was badly scorched but (Turn to Page Seven)

Troops Pour Home On Big Ocean Liners

New York, Sept. 10.—(A)—The British liner Queen Mary, her sides hung with so many banners she looked like a huge floating billboard slid out of the fog into New York harbor today, jammed with nearly 15,000 veterans of the European war. Yells, whistles and shouts of the soldiers, mostly Kansans, Missourians and Nebraskans from President Truman's old World War I division, the 35th, heralded the lady's arrival as she ended her fifth westward crossing. The noise reached the dock long before the queen did. Soldiers and the largest contingent of WACS to be returned to the United States from Europe covered every inch of space on the open decks. They hung from ladders, and thrust their heads through portholes. A huge map of Europe on the starboard side had GI's heads where Paris and Berlin were located. One sign, showing four happy soldiers singing and bearing the wagon wheel of the old Santa Fe trail, the insignia of the 35th, read "Oh, Happy Day."

Oldest Twins Hold Birthday Celebration

Olean, N. Y., Sept. 10.—(A)—Charles E. and George F. Bell, who celebrated their 92nd birthday yesterday, are believed to be the oldest twins in New York state. The two, who said they were in good health, were guests of honor at a family dinner and later greeted friends at an open house. The twins were born at New Hudson in 1853. They conducted mercantile businesses at Kane, Pa., Gilmore, Pa., and Warren, Pa., before opening a department store here in 1888. They retired in 1928.

SKINNY HOME, WIFE GREETED HIM AT PORT

Hero of Corregidor Given Great Welcome When He Arrived At Nation's Capital; Bands Blare

WILL MEET TRUMAN

Washington, Sept. 10.—(A)—Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, tired, but triumphant returned to a hero's acclaim today from the trials of Bataan and the horrors of Japanese prisons. The hero of Corregidor arrived at the capital's national airport at 12:26 p. m. (EST). His wife, "Kitty," was waiting to greet him as he stepped from an army transport command plane at the national airport. General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, accompanied Mrs. Wainwright. Other high ranking army officers stood in line to meet the returning hero. It was their first reunion in over four years. More than 2,000 people and two bands greeted him at the airport. They had only a few moments together. "Skinny" Wainwright had to answer the acclaim of a crowded, cheering capital. Together the couple began an applauded-packed day of parading through flagged bedecked streets, appearances before congress and a White House meeting with President Truman. The army commander who fought the Japanese on Bataan against overwhelming odds until his small force ran out of ammunition was accompanied here by four comrades who shared that ordeal with him. Congress Will Probe Pearl Harbor Bombing; Future Plans

By the Associated Press
Washington, Sept. 18.—(A)—Congress concerned itself today with the hero of Bataan and the culprit—if any—of Pearl Harbor. It starts the first full week of its "reconsecration" session by formally receiving Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright and acting on a resolution for a congressional investigation into the military disaster of Dec. 7, 1941. Otherwise on Capitol Hill there was talk on such diverse subjects as a peacetime navy, surplus property, airports, wages and hours, the atomic bomb and presidential appointments. General Wainwright, who finally surrendered the Philippines to the Japanese after a valiant fight, was scheduled to make a personal appearance in both the senate and the house. But before his arrival, the house hopes to dispose of a senate-passed resolution calling for the Pearl Harbor investigation. The lawmakers—dissatisfied with reports of army and navy inquiry boards—want an independent study by congress. It is almost a cinch that the investigation will be ordered. The only argument is over who should make it. The Republicans want equal representation. But the senate resolution and house Democrats want the usual party lineup—in this case three Democrats and two Republicans from each chamber. This was the situation on other matters: Peacetime navy—congress heard today that the navy wants a post-war fleet of 1,078 fighting ships—just 229 less than it has now. The chairman of the senate and house naval committees—Senator Walsh (D-Mass) and Rep. Carl Vinson

WORKERS AT FORD PLANTS ARE RECALLED

Alternative Sources of Supply Arranged To Secure Parts for 1946 Cars On Assembly Lines

LABOR WORLD SEETHES

By the Associated Press
Eighteen of 56 reported labor disturbances today accounted for almost exactly three-fourths of the approximately 119,000 persons idle, but the picture was brightened somewhat by the recall of 22,000 Ford workers to their jobs. The eighteen disputes ranged from the 15,000 idle at the Consolidated Steel Company plant, Orange, Tex., through such firms as Westinghouse Electric (12,000), the H. C. Frick Coke Co., Pittsburgh (7,500), and the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Co., Detroit (4,500). Other disturbances involved numbers from 25 upward to 1,500. The 25 strikers were at the Oklahoma Rendering Co., Oklahoma City, while the 1,500 was duplicated in several other places. The Ford recall came after company officials announced they had arranged for alternative sources of supply when the strike at Kelsey-Hayes interfered with the supply of parts for 1946 cars. Some 8,500 Ford workers remained idle elsewhere from the same cause. The Westinghouse strike, a new addition to the labor scene, was voted by members of the federation of Westinghouse independent salaried unions covering white collar workers in nine cities. Bonuses and incentive pay rates were the issues. Another major walkout kept 780 foremen and 15,000 other workers idle at the six B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. plants in Akron, O.

MacArthur's Hand Is Firm In Handling Japanese Homeland

By the Associated Press
Tokyo, Sept. 10.—(A)—General MacArthur struck Japanese militarism a death blow today by ordering the imperial general headquarters abolished and simultaneously clamped a press and radio censorship on the beaten empire. Tokyo, Sept. 10.—(A)—General MacArthur's softly firm control spread through the length of Japan and southern Korea today—but his policy of retaining and using the existing Japanese government set sparks flying in Korea. Koreans demonstrated in Seoul (Keijo) and termed it "a slap in the face" when Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, whose 24th army corps landed at Jinsen Saturday, proclaimed that Japanese administrative officials would continue in office. They had expected quick freedom from the Nipponese. A light censorship was placed over Japanese newspapers Sunday, but there has been no attempt to control their editorials or propaganda. Tokyo newspapers relieved one Japanese worry by reporting that notes of the Bank of Japan would be legal tender and that no occupation money would be used. Hodge, after accepting surrender of southern Korea (the Russians control the northern half), quickly explained that the Japanese governor-general and his staff would remain in office only to carry out American orders and would be allowed no independent action. Vice Adm. Frank Jack Fletcher and his north Pacific naval forces accepted Japan's surrender of all northern Honshu and the northernmost home island of Hokkaido at Ominato naval base Sunday. Japanese were ordered to disarm and to continue their civil administration. Patrol boats and carrier planes circled alertly, pending the arrival of occupation troops. MacArthur simultaneously issued two statements from his new headquarters in the U. S. embassy in Tokyo. One pledged that Japanese militarism would be eliminated. The other assured his troops they would go home as soon as peace could be made secure. In his first statement, he explained that the Japanese would rule themselves, subject to his orders and with occupation troops ready to enforce his decisions if necessary. He warned his sown troops to respect the rights of Japanese: "looting, pillage, rape... would be but a stain on your own high honor."

Train Kills Two At Corry In Car Collision

Corry, Sept. 10.—Glenn and George McAllister, brothers of R. R. Corry, were killed Sunday night when their automobile was struck by an eastbound Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train in McMahon crossing four miles west of here. Deputy Coroner Charles P. Keating said Glenn was thrown clear of the machine while his brother was found in the wreckage. The car was carried 180 feet from the crossing and was badly wrecked, the deputy coroner said. Both men were about 60 years old.

Lord Plant Back In Owners' Hands

Erie, Sept. 10.—(A)—The Lord Manufacturing Co. plant seized by the government October 25, the result of a price dispute in manufacturing naval aircraft parts, returns to the Lord Co. at 12:01 p. m. today. This was the result of an agreement signed in Washington Saturday by H. Strune Hensel, assistant secretary of the navy, and Thomas Lord, company vice-president. The agreement stipulated that Lt. Com. N. H. Collisson, former naval executive officer in charge of the plant, will have access to the plant and records to enable him to finish details in connection with contract work. Collisson said today, "the navy has produced appreciably more than $10,000,000 worth of products while supervising the plant since Oct. 25."

Woman Dies After Kane Auto Crash

Kane, Sept. 10.—(A)—Anna Zuberchen, 66-year-old Orrville, O., woman climbed out of her car after it had skidded off the road on a curve Saturday and exclaimed: "I'm lucky, I didn't get a scratch." A few seconds later she was dead. Coroner Ralph Mimm said the woman was fatally hurt when another car rounded the curve and struck her and injured Mrs. Sarah Groves and her daughter, Joan, both of R. D. 1, Kane. Two other accidents in the Kane district sent two people to the hospital. Five-year-old John Slater, of Roystown, suffered fracture of the skull and possible internal injuries when he was hit by an auto along the Sheffield-Ludlow road. Carl Dahl, 67, of Sheffield, was seriously injured, Kane hospital attendants reported, when two trucks collided near here.

Ex-Sailor Tells Of Killing Girl

Uniontown, Sept. 10.—(A)—An 18-year-old ex-sailor, who District Attorney H. Vance Cottom said signed a statement that he beat Fayette city's "sunshine girl" unconscious, was to be taken today to the wooded place where her body, stripped and strangled, was found. There, the prosecutor said, the young veteran of the Pacific, Frederick Hauser, would be asked to re-enact what occurred along the lonely road where pretty Anna Elizabeth Dreyer, 17, was pulled unconscious out of an automobile and strangled. Cottom said Hauser, a resident of Monessen, would be formally charged today with the murder of the young waitress. Tomorrow, Hauser will observe his 19th birthday in Fayette county jail.

Motor Yawl "Lady Grace" In Port Here On Saturday

The motor yawl "Lady Grace," four days and from Olean enroute to Pittsburgh, arrived in Warren at 4:30 p. m. on Saturday, one day behind schedule due to the prevalence of fog on the upper river which delayed departure each morning until ten o'clock. Capt. Fred Way reported that little difficulty was encountered in negotiating the many riffles, despite the fact that the Allegheny was at a very low stage. The navigators were greeted from the shore above the concrete bridge by H. C. Putnam and were guided to a mooring place under the bridge on the South Side.

After spending four nights sleeping in the open on gravel bars on the river, the hardy mariners were prone to accept an invitation to resume the ways of civilization. Engines, stores and camping paraphernalia were loaded on a station wagon and after doffing his boots and other river togs in favor of shore apparel, Capt. Way and Lieut. Rutter were taken by Mr. Putnam to Russell, another famous port of bygone days, to spend the evening discussing the favorite topic of all rivermen and river lovers, "the river."

Sunday morning the visitors were given a view of the Conewango valley as far as Green's bridge, after which they were driven to Warren where the boat was loaded and departure effected at one p. m. Several river-minded Warrentes were on hand to give them a sendoff on their 192 mile trip to Pittsburgh, the third such trip for Captain Way.

The voyagers were sorry that the delay in arrival and the necessity for making up lost time prevented them from meeting more of the local navigating enthusiasts. While here Capt. Way strongly reiterated his belief that the Allegheny river should be further improved for navigation by the construction of locks and dams up to Olean; that this section of country is far more entitled to the benefits of water transportation than are many other sections which have already benefited from such improvements. He is firmly convinced that if the industrial and other interests of Northwestern Pennsylvania and Southwestern New York will sufficiently bestir themselves a portion of the money that is bound to be appropriated by congress for post-war navigation improvements can and will be secured for further slackwatering of the Allegheny, the largest unimproved stream east of the Rocky Mountains, flowing through a region ripe for great industrial and recreational development.

Plans Made For Meeting Of Scouters

Program plans for the fall meeting of the Warren County Council, scheduled for 7:30 p. m. this evening in the small court room at the Court House, are now complete. It was learned this morning at the local Boy Scout office.

The speaker will be Mr. Harold Lewman, of Philadelphia, Regional Scout executive. This will mark Mr. Lewman's first visit to the local council since he assumed the responsibility of his present position on March 1st this year. Previously, he had served as the Regional Executive of Region VIII with headquarters in Kansas City, Mo.

The reports of the Council's Operating committees will be made by Leo Gleese, Scout commissioner; N. D. Paterson, treasurer; T. R. Sponsler, chairman of the leadership training committee; W. M. Hill, vice-chairman of the Scout advancement committee; W. E. Yeager, chairman of finance committee; H. A. Otterson chairman of the health and safety committee; B. W. Knapp, chairman of the camping and activities committee; Henry Ledebur, chairman of the Jefferies committee and C. C. Winans, chairman of the organization and extension committee.

Tonight's meeting will attract a large delegation of Scouters including members of the Executive Board, members of operating committees, and delegates elected to the council by the churches and other organizations now using the Scouting program.

It is expected the meeting will launch a vigorous program of fall activity among the present Scouting Units and a renewed effort toward the extension of the movement to reach an ever increasing number of boys in the area served by the council.

Eight railroads in Missouri have converted their right-of-way into sanctuaries for birds and animals.

THE TRUMAN APPROACH

The program for peacetime prosperity which President Truman presented to Congress could scarcely be called atomic. Yet it was a bit of a bombshell which touched off some immediate explosions. Its effect will surely be felt in new ways and in new places for months to come. And the extent to which it is followed, altered or abandoned by Congress will have a decisive effect upon our history.

The program is scarcely an air-tight, copper-riveted plan, charting undeviating and uncontradictory courses toward a multitude of goals. Thus it can't safely be hailed or cursed in its entirety. Nor is there space to give detailed consideration to all its points. So perhaps it may be enough for the moment to comment upon its tone and emphasis.

This was Mr. Truman's first peacetime message to Congress. It included a continuation and even extension of some long-cherished New Deal policies. But the presentation was not one that would have been used by the late President Roosevelt, author of the New Deal.

Mr. Truman's tone was cheerful and confident. It showed a nice balance of modesty and authority. The President addressed Congress as a partner and an equal.

It is not unlikely that some of Congress' most vigorous anti-New Dealers were deceived on first hearing by the President's mild and amenable presentation of his program. It might have required a more detailed study to convince them that their hopes for Mr. Truman's domestic conservatism were obviously vain.

Take, for example, his request for passage of the full employment bill. He minimized the role of government and government spending, the measure's core of controversy. He emphasized government's "ultimate" duty to use its resources if other means fail to prevent "prolonged" unemployment.

"Full employment," said Mr. Truman, "means full opportunity for all under the American economic system—nothing more and nothing less . . . It does not mean made work, or making people work . . . Full employment means opportunity to reduce the ratio of public spending to private investment without sacrificing essential services."

Probably some opponents of the Murray-Wagner Full Employment Bill felt a little more kindly toward it after reading Mr. Truman's interpretation.

None of this comment is intended to accuse Mr. Truman of hypocrisy or deception. His record thus far shows that he has a way of saying what he means. It is evident that, though he rightly recognizes his power and responsibility, he does not regard himself as the final authority. His nature seems to welcome the achievement of objectives by compromise and friendly co-operation. That is a trait for which the country may have reason to be grateful in the future.

A MEDAL FOR MR. HOPKINS

A lot of people in this country don't like Harry Hopkins. A lot more don't know precisely what his role in government has been during the past decade. But we imagine there are few who would begrudge him his recent honor.

Mr. Hopkins has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for "services of outstanding value to the United States of America from December, 1941, to July, 1945." He was long the confidant, adviser and go-between for President Roosevelt in relations with top officials in Washington and the heads of foreign governments.

He helped disburse the fruits of American war production as chairman of the Munitions Assignment Board, and engineered some presumably delicate negotiations as head of the President's Soviet Protocol Committee.

After Mr. Roosevelt's death he put himself at President Truman's disposal, went to Moscow and, it seems safe to say, helped break some of the dams of Russian opposition which for a time threatened to wreck the San Francisco Conference.

Through most of these activities Mr. Hopkins was a very sick man. He wasn't a rich man and he received a relatively modest salary. He might have retired from his semi-public life which brought him a great deal of public censure. But he stuck to the jobs assigned him by two presidents. And the first public recognition of his service to the nation is undoubtedly deserved.

It's Easy to See Which Path the President's Following

A cartoon illustration showing a man in a suit, labeled 'TRUMAN'S MESSAGE TO CONGRESS', standing on a narrow path. He is being pulled in two directions by two other men. One man, labeled 'LIBERAL', is pulling him to the left, and the other, labeled 'CONSERVATIVE', is pulling him to the right. The man in the middle is looking back over his shoulder at the conservative side, saying 'OH, GOODY! HE'S ON MY SIDE!'. The liberal side is shouting 'HOO-RAH! HE'S ON MY SIDE!'. The path is marked with 'LEFT' and 'RIGHT' signs.

NewKaneCoal Mine Produces 600 Tons Daily

Kane, Sept. 10.—Full production has begun in the new strip coal operation near this city and 600 tons daily of the premium semi-anthracite coal are being taken from the seam. With thousands of acres leased and the extent of the seam proven, steady production for ten or more years is assured.

Discovery came purely by accident to P. J. Logue and Jess Perry, who began a deep mining venture here a year ago.

They opened a vein with a tunneling operation about 30 feet under the surface and in the course of the work a trace of coal was found at a higher level. Tests were made and a vein was discovered about twenty feet under the surface which ranged from 30 to 42 inches in thickness. The coal was tested in various points and resulted in efforts to begin the first strip-mining in this region.

The E. & E. Company, headed by Edward Bennett and Edward Finn, of Indiana, put in hundreds of thousands of dollars in heavy equipment and in the past few months, the huge shovels gorged an area almost a mile long and from 60 to 80 feet wide down to the coal seam. A few days ago the shovels started working back to the starting point, only this time, removing the coal.

Logue and Perry will continue to handle the coal and are arranging for installation within the next six or eight weeks of a crusher, tippie and screening equipment. The coal as Logue explains, shows definite characteristics of both anthracite and bituminous. Tests have been made showing an ash of 4.4 per cent, the lowest recorded in this area, and a fusing point of 2,800 degrees, making the coal virtually clinker-proof.

A silkworm must make about 300,000 turns in spinning its cocoon.

In the boom year of 1929, the United States exported one billion dollars more of goods than imported.

Wright or Wrong?

A COMMONPLACE BOOK

"This is the way it used to be," we thought as the starter whirled and the motor grudgingly caught hold. "This is the way it used to be before gas rationing, before the war. Three and a half years ago . . . forty-four months ago . . . a little chunk of a lifetime. Not such a little chunk, either, when you remember that the whole of life is only a little chunk, too. A good many people have died in those forty-four months . . . a good many have been hopelessly maimed . . . a good many have grown old. Everyone—we, ourselves—have changed." Curious unbidden thoughts, bubbling through that Percolator known as the Brain as the motor settles into silky acquiescence, the westmost bricks of Pennsylvania Avenue slide eastward under the wheels, and we are off on a sentimental journey, after forty-four months.

Youngsville, Grand Valley, Oil City, Franklin . . . The damp cold of early morning is thinning a bit. Here is Mercer, a small town on a hillside; old-fashioned buildings; handsome, unmodernized homes. We used to have friends in Mercer; that redoubtable old attorney, Quincy Gordon; that stalwart once-Congressman, Tom Cochran. A memory trickles through the Percolator. The place is a rocky island in the French River, summer of 1922 or 23. To that remote Ontario spot, word has just flashed of the death of President Harding. Members of the Club, cottagers from remote camps on the River, have gathered in the Assembly Room. In measured tones Quincy Gordon is delivering an oration in memory of the dead President. Tom Cochran and his family are there. "As great as Washington or Lincoln . . . one of our greatest Americans . . ." Well, maybe Quincy made a few concessions to the proprieties of the occasion. Just a ragtag of memory. Mercer is behind us now, remote-seeming as always, a dream town in red brick on top of its hill.

Here is Sharon. Not an ingratiating city, but once the residence of other French River companions, the Whitlats. The son, "Billy" Whitlat, was the central figure in a once-famous kidnapping case. I can remember, as a little boy of eight, staring at the headlines, at the picture of a towheaded boy of eight in a gray sweater. (I had a gray sweater, too; I was towheaded; and I was also called "Billy." It all seemed a remarkable coincidence.) Sharon, Pa., suddenly center of world attention. "Son of Prominent Attorney Kidnaped . . . Police in Nationwide Hunt for Billy Whitlat . . . Billy Whitlat Found in Hollenden Hotel, Cleveland . . . Kidnapers Confess . . ." Strange to have identified myself as a child with Billy Whitlat. Strange to have known him as a young man fifteen years later. Strange, now, to realize he has been dead for years. Only his mother and sister remain of the original Whitlats; and they no longer live in Sharon, we have heard.

The hills tread lightly, and more lightly. "This is Ohio now, Andy." Youngstown—let's get out of here quick! Yes, this is Ohio; flat, rich. The hills are gone, and the darkness of the evergreen. The clear rivers and streams are gone. The roughness, the coolness, the wildness of Pennsylvania are gone. To right and left, ahead and behind, the cornfields stretch in limitless perspective. This is the Land of Corn; corn eight, nine, ten feet tall. This is Ohio, bland, fertile, faintly misty in the late-July heat.

No. I'm afraid the word "heat" squirmed through the Percolator with a literary slipperiness. Matter of fact, it is chilly still. Our car windows are almost closed as we slip along, enjoying mild Ohio and our Percolations. ("Think of having all the gasoline you want; of being able to drive along without a mental eye on the gas tank and a periodic twinge in the conscience. The war's over—can't you remember?") Patterns of thought go on, even when the circumstances that created them have vanished.

Barberton, now, a suburb of Akron. Quick-out! More than two hundred miles have flowed under our respectful tires. (They'd better be respectful after four years of registered-nursing.) Marion, Ohio, coming up. "This is where President Harding lived, Andy" . . . Who was he? . . . "He was President back in 1920" . . . "Was he a good President?" . . . "Hi-m-m!" . . . Cogent question. "Well, you see, he . . ." We dig our toes into the conversational turf in a quick change of pace, suddenly realizing that, to a seven-year-old, it is a foregone conclusion that merely to be an American President is of necessity to be good and great. Before the straight, simple thinking of childhood we squirm in adult ethical shame.

"This was President Harding's house. See the iron fence with the locked gate? See the rambling front porch with its out-jutting circle like a natural rostrum? This was the scene of the Famous Front-Porch Campaign."

"What's a Front-Porch Campaign?"

"Well, you see . . ." But street-crossings flow faster than history. Here is the Harding Memorial. Worth spending a few minutes to see. Indeed, one of the most beautiful of all memorials, we think, as we look into the circular interior with its mournful tree and its deep ground-cover of ivy; at the sincere lines of the columns; at the massive, simple beauty of the gravesites. Strange, the shoddy, befuddled President; and this, his superb memorial.

A quick swing to the southwest; into the tiny town of Richmond, presently. A somnolent example of American Inlandia; the kind of town whose gauche shabbiness is dear to the modern painters; whose architectural monstrosities are covered now with the patina of charm one finds in an ugly antique chair. The town is full of red-faced, rough, friendly farmers. One of them buys five packets of chewing tobacco. From the window of a real estate office we learn that good Ohio farmland is selling for more than one hundred dollars per acre. A single farm is advertised for sale at $60,000. Gosh, these farms are industries! We look with new comprehension at the sunburned, expectorating entrepreneurs of these food-factories. A miracle dinner of steed and wonderful vegetables in a hole-in-the-wall; and we are off again for Bellefontaine.

Episcopal Church Members Studying Mission Activities

The Rev. Beecher M. Rutledge, rector of Trinity Memorial Episcopal church here, is highly delighted with the response of his church members to the appeal of the national church organization to study the various mission fields in preparation for the raising of a sum of $5,000,000 or more for reconstruction and advance needs and opportunities growing out of the war.

Each month Episcopal church people have been asked to study a different part of their church's world work. Already the Philippine Islands and China have been studied. For September the study is to be of the remarkable work of the American Church Institute for Negroes, sponsored by the Episcopal church. The institute is made up of nine schools in the southern states. Five are high schools with agricultural, industrial, and normal training, some with junior college grades; one is a college, fully accredited; one is a theological seminary for the training of Negro clergymen; and there is a College District Center at Fort Valley State College, Fort Valley, Ga.

Information received by Mr. Rutledge from his church headquarters indicates that the study plan started well in May, grew rapidly in June. There was a vacation period in July and August, and now there is every indication that the study, on a really intensive basis, is practically universal, with the September schedule, so that the vast majority of Episcopal church people—over two million of them—are engaged in learning about their church's program of work in education, social relations, healing, and evangelism in all parts of the world. Episcopal church officials claim that when this study is completed, church people will be "better educated in the business of their own church than they have ever been before," and they believe that with knowledge will come appreciation of the tremendous opportunities confronting Christian people in all parts of the world, both now, and following the coming of peace.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cogswell, of Stanford, Conn., will arrive in the city today to spend some time with Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Harvey, 8 Terrace street.

Mrs. P. N. Gilson and daughter, Joyce, have returned home after a visit to New York City and Fort Monmouth, N. J. They were accompanied home by Lt. Richard Gilson, who will spend a 15-day leave while en route to the west coast.

Minister Is Returned Here

A five-day meeting of the Oil City Conference of the Free Methodist church closed Sunday in Pleasantville, with Bishop Charles V. Fairbairn, of McPherson, Kans.,

SAYS SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE:

Despite Victory Used Fat Saving Must Go On!

Every woman in America should know that our country continues to face a serious fat shortage. And victory over Japan won't solve the problem immediately. We must keep on saving used fats in our kitchens!

If you have any thought that saving used fats is one of those wartime chores we can drop, now that Victory is here, please consider these facts and tell them to your neighbors.

America still needs salvaged fats. Not even at the peak of our war effort, when fats were required for mountains of shells and bombs and medicines, in addition to the ever-present need for soap, were our needs for salvaging fat greater than now. Our stocks have been drained by four long years of war, and there isn't enough on hand to meet all requirements.

Don't let "Victory psychology" blind you to this national need! If housewives stop saving fats now, the shortage will become even more critical.

Don't let a single drop of used fats go to waste! Little trimmings of fat left on plates, even the skimmings of soups and gravies are important. It is the consistent saving of these small amounts that counts.

Don't turn in fats that can be re-used! But some fats, such as those rendered from lamb and mutton, are not suitable for re-use. Put them immediately in the salvage can. And, with other fats, after you've got all cooking good out of them, there is always a little left. No matter how little it is, save it.

Your butcher will still give you 4c and 2 red points for every pound you turn in. Save consistently—save every drop you can—every day—until Uncle Sam says the job is done.

HIGH SCHOOLERS OVERPOWER WEAK KANE ELEVEN, 27-7

Jim Scalise Crosses Goal Three Times, Bonace Once; Kane Scores On Aerial Plays

Using a repetition of "hit the line" tactics, Coach J. B. Leidig's Warren Dragon gridsters pounded out a 27-7 victory over Kane's Wolves Saturday afternoon at Russell Field for the locals' second win three starts. Fullback Jimmy Scalise paced the Dragon attack, tallying three touchdowns during the game.

After Kane won the toss, Bonace kicked to the Wolves on their own 29, and for the next few minutes it looked like "curtains" for the Blue and White bearers. "Buck" Byham, Kane's veteran signal-caller, let loose with a 35-yard aerial to Hank Weiser which sent the Wolves into Dragon territory in the opening minutes of play. Before the Wolves could advance closer to the goal, however, the Dragon line settled down and stopped the Kane attack dead. Byham kicked to quarterback Louise Bonace on the twenty, returning the pigskin to Warren's 37, and starting a smash to Kane's goal. Four successive line plays gave the locals a first down and Bonace hurled a 20-yard pass to halfback Dave Lopez on Kane's own 24.

Louie Bonace went over with the first score when Scalise sent an 11-yard pass to him on the seven and he went the remaining distance for the initial touchdown. Frank Shanshala bucked the line as the Dragons moved out in front on a 7-0 count.

The Dragons just missed a second scoring opportunity in the final minutes of the opening stanza. End Al McNally recovered a blocked Kane punt on the Wolves' 31, but the Dragons lost possession immediately on a pass interception, the quarter ending shortly afterward.

The majority of the play was in Kane territory as the Dragons hovered constantly near the goal. The Bonace-Shanshala duo again continued to work out exceedingly well, both carrying the ball a great deal of the game. Frankie Shanshala and Dave Lopez also shared in the groundwork honors. Kane's only score came early in the second quarter after Scalise had quick-kicked to Pete Colella on his own 38 and returned to the Dragon 45. Three running plays gave the Wolves a first down and the ball on Warren's 54 when Byham uncorked two beautiful aerials to Jackie Carson to send the losers as far as the Dragon eight-yard stripe. Byham scored the lone six-pointer on a sweep around his own left end, making the score stand at 7-6. Byham plunged for the point to tie the game.

The Dragons scored their second tally just a few minutes before the mid-time whistle after Bob Gerardi had recovered a bad Kane center on the Wolves' 12. Jimmy Scalise, on the first play, plunged for five, then bulldozed through a weak Kane line for the second touchdown, his first out of three in the game. Al McNally went over for the point on a line left, putting Warren out in front once again, 14-7.

Early in the third period the Dragons sent the third touchdown across. After a series of exchange punts, Warren took the ball on the opponents' 31, and three plunges put the oval on

K. of C. Opens Bowling League Fri. at Arcade
The K. of C. will open the bowling season Friday night, September 14, at the Arcade Recreation alleys properly at seven o'clock with a six-team league, four of the teams to bowl at seven on Friday and the remaining two at nine o'clock.

The schedule for the opening night sends Fordham against Santa Clara, Duquesne against Notre Dame, and St. Marys against Holy Cross. All members are requested to be prompt.

One-third of the area of the United States is forested.

Flame throwers used by Yanks against the Japs threw a blaze more than 450 feet.

the Braves as Ray Prim and Claude Passeau, in rare form prostrated the Hubmen 9-1 and 4-0. Prime's five-hitter was his 12th triumph while Passeau registered his 16th with a superb three-hit shutout.

The Redbirds had to win their last game. After coming from behind to sneak in with the opener 5-4, they made it two successive one-run decisions over the New York Yankees by winning the second and third games, racking up their 21st success in the afterpiece.

The season's record crowd of 72,152, (65,534 paid) saw ex-gob Bob Feller outpitch ex-GI Spud Chandler to pave the way for a Cleveland 10-4 and 4-3 double win over the New York Yankees at Yankee Stadium, and practically eliminate the Bronxites from any flag consideration.

In the other twin-bills, Cincinnati came from behind twice to win both contests from Brooklyn 6-5 and 6-4, needing 10 innings to take the first. Al Lakeman drove in the winning run in both contests. The Phils and Pirates split. After Walter (Boom-Boom) Beck gained his sixth straight triumph for Pittsburgh 4-3 in the opener, Philadelphia jumped on three Buc hurlers for 24 hits and a 14-3 decision in the nightcap.

Behind the Lines

It has been rumored that Corry High School will enter Section Two of District Ten in the PIAA basketball league this year. If the rumor comes true, it may put a black mark on the league's very commendable functions of the past years. If you will remember correctly, the Corry Beavers were politely "kicked out" of the Erie County basketball league during the 1944-5 season because, after a meeting of the league's coaches, the attitude and playing tactics of the Corry players were deemed "disgraceful and detrimental to the league." According to reports last season, there was plenty of truth in that statement.

Corry "blew its top" last year when Jack Tinson invaded the small town with intention of making the small town a second Massillon, O., sports boom, but some thing went wrong and the situation changed. Last season's Corry football team was exceptionally good for the town's size, and this year's eleven was supposed to have been a "crackerjack." But "too many hands in the broth spoiled the soup."

It will be a tough year for ex-Marine "Red" Lytle, who has taken over at the helm of the Beaver setup. Corry fans expect a lot more from their previous efforts than they will get.

Warren has as a visitor for the past few days a national sports figure, but few people realize of just what importance this man is in the basketball world. "Bud" Jeanette, who started his professional career here in Warren with the H.V. Oils and later went on to Cleveland, Detroit, and now Fort Wayne, ranks as the No. 1 court star in the country. When the local outfit broke up and went to Cleveland under the title of "White Horses," Jeanette continued with the team, and later went to Detroit's Eagles, who played the Warren Pattersons at Beatty School a number of winter's ago. From there, Jeanette went to Fort Wayne's Zollners, not only playing basketball but working in the off-

Eagles Lose 27-0 Encounter to JHS

Artie Amann's Youngsville Eagles suffered their second defeat in as many starts last Saturday at Wilder Field when a much heavier and stronger Johnsonburg High lashed out a 27-0 victory.

Both teams pounded back and forth in the first half, the J.H.S. eleven holding a 7-0 lead at the mid-way mark. But in the third, the visitors scored again and twice in the final stanza. Clarence Jones, Eagle fullback, and "Dink" Lovison, halfback, sparked the Eagles' field attack.

Next Saturday, the Eagles renew their ancient rivalry with Sheffield's Wolverines on Wilder Field at 2:30. Saturday's game will open Sheffield's 1945 season.

Instructions not to resist the Nazis. It was through his agency that German troops were introduced into Norway's harbors in the holds of coal and freight ships, the prosecution asserted.
Thus undermined, Norway's defense quickly collapsed.
After Germany had taken possession of the country, Quisling cooperated with the Germans in a policy of deportation and oppression that resulted in the deaths of hundreds of Jews and patriots, it was charged.
Throughout, Quisling contended he cooperated with the Germans to avoid a worse fate for his country.
In his final plea, he declared he stood before the court as "Quisling the patriot."

ution was reached. Dr. Fago also performed an autopsy on the slain man. He spent some time describing the result of the autopsy and the structure of the body through which the bullet followed in its course. In his testimony Dr. Fago expressed the opinion that McKinney was leaning forward when he was shot.

Also called by the prosecution was Calvin Barwis, civil engineer, who made the floor plan of the death house and David Barstow, photographer who made a number of pictures showing the interior of the home.

Mrs. McKinney's family as usual were in court today and her brother Gerald Hoffman was also in attendance. He sat with her parents and two sisters. The McKinney family was not present.

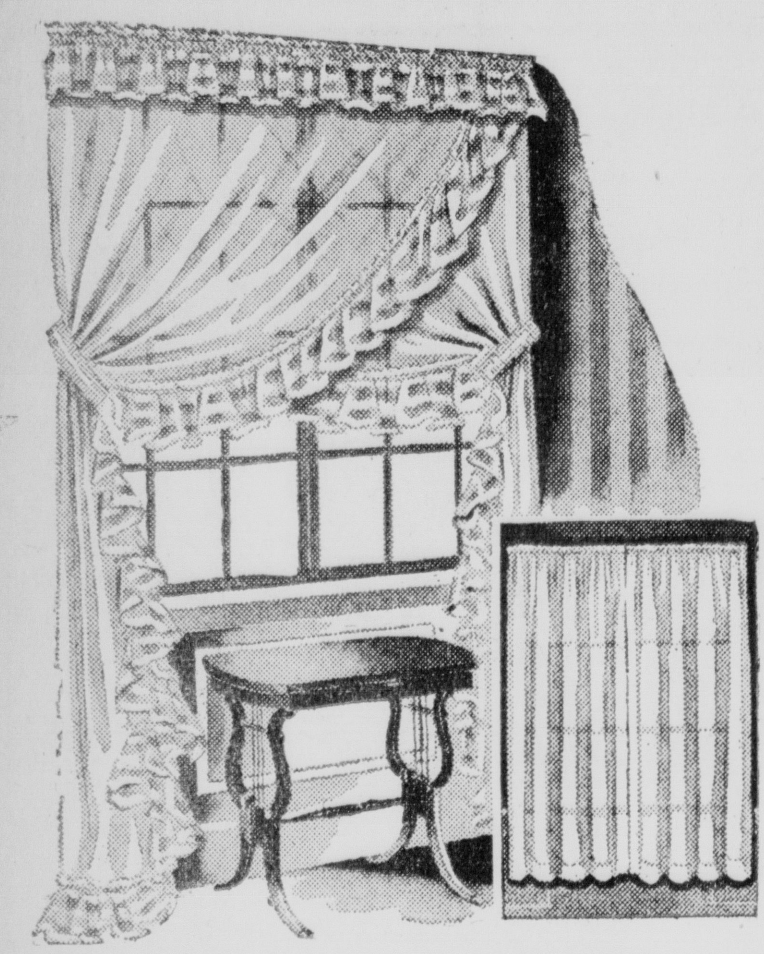

On convening of court this afternoon Coroner Ed C. Lowrey was placed on the stand again but Counsel for the defense stated "no cross examination." Lowrey was then excused.
Ernest Johnson, of Youngville, a neighbor who was summoned to the home of Mrs. McKinney following the shooting and who aided in getting McKinney into the ambulance then took the stand.

Emblem officials, who raced to the scene, stated no serious condition would result from the waste gasoline flowing into the sewers if plenty of water was kept in action with the leaking fluid.

Goldstein Demands Conviction For Murder

Quisling Must Pay Heavily For His Numerous Crimes

Guilty Traitor To Die Unless Held For Other Trials

Lowry's Arch Conspirator Will Face Firing Squad Within Next Three Weeks

MADE DRAMATIC PLEA

London, Sept. 10.—(P)—The so-called "arch conspirator" of the Quisling trial today made a dramatic plea for mercy, but the court that tried Quisling for charges of high treason and sentenced him to death.

The pronouncing of the sentence by the court that tried Quisling for cooperation with the Germans during the occupation of Norway is broadcast direct from the courtroom.

Under the new law legalizing the death penalty in Norway, the sentence will be executed by a military firing squad composed of 10 soldiers firing 10 bullets.

Under the law Quisling can appeal to the supreme court which can commute the sentence but cannot reverse it.

The presiding judge at Quisling's trial, however, was Erik Lem who also is a supreme court justice and thus one of the group which would pass on any appeal.

Unless Quisling is held for purposes of giving evidence in other crimes cases, it is likely the execution will be carried out within three weeks.

Quisling, 58, was major in Norway's pre-war army and a former defense minister. The prosecution charged the three weeks trial accused him of meeting Hitler, and Admiral Erich Raeder and other German officials in December, 1939, and urging them to invade Norway.

He was charged with turning over Norwegian defense data to the Germans, and on the day of invasion, April 9, 1940, it was charged he went to the government offices and personally telephoned certain garrisons and gave them orders to surrender.

Quisling, of Sheffield, is in a hospital with a fractured leg as the result of a collision between two trucks at Sheffield on 5:50 p. m. Saturday.

According to the local State coroner, the accident occurred on Route 6, near the entrance to Foulkrod avenue, when a light truck backed up and struck a car across the highway directly in the path of another truck driven by Merle Chittister, 121 Oak et, Kane. Dahl, aged 71, died of the head injury when he was thrown from his truck by the act.

The State Police are continuing an investigation into a hit and run incident which took place last night near the Lily Pond bridge, about three miles west of Warren. Search is being made for driver of a car which struck a machine driven by Ruth Upbell, 308 Laurel street, and fled to stop. Damage to the Upbell car was estimated by the police at about $35.

The result of a two-car crash which occurred on Route 6 in field late Thursday night, Axel Stenson, of Sheffield, will be charged by State Police with failure to drive on the right side of highway. The charge grew of police investigation of the crash, the officers learning that Stenson, traveling east in a Plymouth coach, crossed the center of the highway and struck incoming vehicle driven by Pvt. Collins, 831 Fourth avenue, Warren. Damage to the Collins car was estimated by the police at about $350 and to the Stenson's car at $45.

No Date Set For End of Rationing

Washington, Sept. 10.—(P)—Government food officials said today no date has been set for termination of meat rationing.

With cattle marketing increasing seasonally, supplies of meats, particularly beef and veal, are improving. At the office of Price Administration it was said however, that the meat supplies have not increased sufficiently yet to warrant ending of rationing.

There has been speculation that rationing would be ended October 1. Aides of Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said that action may be possible but no agreement to that effect has been reached yet between the Agriculture Department and the OPA.

Charges Japs Ate Flesh Of American Men

By the Associated Press
The Australian government in an official statement declared today that Japanese soldiers ate the flesh of American prisoners of war after they had been used for bayonet practice.

In other parts of the Far East stories of other brutal Japanese treatment came to light as hundreds of American prisoners reached safety and told of their existence in Japanese hell camps.

Thousands of other American prisoners were aboard ships and planes on their way home.

In an official document made public today Australian authorities disclosed the Japanese "resorted to cannibalism" against Allied prisoners.

The atrocity report said Japanese soldiers tied the hands of captured American and Australian soldiers behind them, used the helpless men for bayonet practice and then while they were still alive sliced off their flesh for food. Times and places were not disclosed.

The atrocity report was prepared for submission to the United Nations war crime commission. From authentic evidence it was established the prisoners were eaten and in some cases, the report said, human flesh was found in Japanese mess kits or over camp fires. The report contained confessions from Japanese soldiers who admitted they cut up and ate Allied prisoners.

Miss America To Study Music

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 10.—(P)—Miss Bess Myerson, 21, of New York City, brunette and hazel-eyed "Miss America of 1945" from authentic evidence it was established the prisoners were eaten and in some cases, the report said, human flesh was found in Japanese mess kits or over camp fires. The report contained confessions from Japanese soldiers who admitted they cut up and ate Allied prisoners.

She said in an interview that she does not plan to accept either the movie contract or the 15-week personal appearance tour which were part of the grand prize. She will, she said, make a few personal appearances to which she was committed when she entered the contest.

TRUCKER DIES OF GASOLINE BLAZE BURNS

Driver of Emblem Oil Company Tanker Passes Away In Corry Hospital Saturday Morning

ANOTHER ALSO BURNED

Continuing investigation by officials of the Emblem Oil Company and the Pennsylvania State Police has as yet cast no light on the cause of the explosion which claimed the life of one Warren man and seriously injured another about two o'clock Saturday morning at the North Corry bulk station of the local firm.

Roy F. Felton, Sr., aged 50 years, of 906 Fourth avenue, was so seriously burned over his entire body that he succumbed to his injuries at 10:30 a. m. Saturday in the Corry Hospital.

Henry E. White, 30, helper on the tank truck being operated by Felton, was severely burned about the hands, forearms, face and back, but is reported considerably improved today.

Questioned this morning concerning varying estimates of damage resulting from the series of explosions and fire, Emblem officials stated the loss will reach an estimated $10,000 to $12,000, much lower than figures originally given out.

Several theories have been advanced concerning the cause of the tragedy, but nothing definite has been learned or is expected until it is possible to question young White. The tank truck had left Warren only a short time before the accident and it is believed both men were standing near the machine, if not seated in it, after completing their task of unloading.

Among the first to reach the scene were Frank Whiteley and George B. Chase, who live nearby and who took the victims to the hospital. When fire departments from both the First and Second wards stations reached the scene, the tank truck was a mass of flames and the fire soon spread to the vapor being vented from the storage tanks. Fire Chief Andrew Paulson and his men were highly commended for their efficient handling of the fire. Dispatch of foamite from Warren was at first considered, but the methods adopted by the Corry department proved almost instantly discarded.

Four lines of hose were laid to the scene, two from considerable distance. The first line in operation was directed against the cab of the truck until it was made certain that the driver and helper had not been trapped inside. As the storage tanks began to give off great sheets of flame from top vents, firemen crisscrossed the line of water and after a series of four blasts succeeded in choking off and smothering the flames from one tank. The same procedure finally conquered flames billowing above a second tank. Had these filled tanks exploded the results would have been catastrophic, firemen reported, according to the police and fire officials.

A residence adjoining the storage property was badly scorched but (Turn to Page Seven)

Troops Pour Home On Big Ocean Liners
New York, Sept. 10.—(P)—The British liner Queen Mary, her sides hung with so many banners she looked like a huge floating billboard slid out of the fog into New York harbor today, jammed with nearly 15,000 veterans of the European war.

Yells, whistles and shouts of the soldiers, mostly Kansans, Missourians and Nebraskaans from President Truman's old World War I division, the 35th, heralded the fifth westward crossing. The noise reached the dock long before the queen did.

Soldiers and the largest contingent of WACs to be returned to the United States from Europe covered every inch of space on the open decks.

They hung from ladders and thrust their heads through portholes. A huge map of Europe on the starboard side had GI's heads where Paris and Berlin were located.

One sign, showing four happy soldiers singing and bearing the wagon wheel of the old Santa Fe trail, the insignia of the 35th, read "Oh, Happy Day!"

Oldest Twins Hold Birthday Celebration

Olean, N. Y., Sept. 10.—(P)—Charles E. and George F. Bell, who celebrated their 92nd birthday yesterday, are believed to be the oldest twins in New York state.

The two, who said they were in good health, were guests of honor at a family dinner and later greeted friends at an open house. The twins were born at New Hudson in 1853. They conducted mercantile businesses at Kane, Pa., Gilmore, Pa., and Warren, Pa., before opening a department store here in 1888. They retired in 1928.

SKINNY HOME, WIFE GREETED HIM AT PORT

Hero of Corregidor Given Great Welcome When He Arrived At Nation's Capital; Bands Blare

WILL MEET TRUMAN

Washington, Sept. 10.—(P)—Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, tired, but triumphant returned to a hero's acclaim today from the trials of Bataan and the horrors of Japanese prisons.

The hero of Corregidor arrived at the capital's national airport at 12:26 p. m. (EWT). His wife, "Kitty," was waiting to greet him as he stepped from an army transport command plane at the national airport.

General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, accompanied Mrs. Wainwright. Other high ranking army officers stood in line to meet the returning hero.

It was their first reunion in over four years. More than 2,000 people and two bands greeted him at the airport.

They had only a few moments together. "Skinny" Wainwright had to answer the acclaim of a crowded, cheering capital. Together the couple began an applauded-packed day of parading through flagged bedecked streets, appearances before congress and a White House meeting with President Truman.

The army commander who fought the Japanese on Bataan against overwhelming odds until his small force ran out of ammunition was accompanied here by four comrades who shared that ordeal with him. (Turn to Page Seven)

Congress Will Probe Pearl Harbor Bombing; Future Plans

Washington, Sept. 18.—(P)—Congress concerned itself today with the hero of Bataan and the culprit—if any—of Pearl Harbor.

It starts the first full week of its "reconversion" session by formally receiving Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright and acting on a resolution for a congressional investigation into the military disaster of Dec. 7, 1941.

Otherwise on Capitol Hill there was talk on such diverse subjects as a peacetime navy, surplus property, airports, wages and hours, the atomic bomb and presidential appointments.

General Wainwright, who finally surrendered the Philippines to the Japanese after a valiant fight, was scheduled to make a personal appearance in both the senate and the house.

But before his arrival, the house hopes to dispose of a senate-passed resolution calling for the Pearl Harbor investigation.

WORKERS AT FORD PLANTS ARE RECALLED

Alternative Sources of Supply Arranged To Secure Parts for 1946 Cars On Assembly Lines

LABOR WORLD SEETHES

By the Associated Press
Eighteen of 56 reported labor disturbances today accounted for almost exactly three-fourths of the approximately 119,000 persons idle, but the picture was brightened somewhat by the recall of 22,000 Ford workers to their jobs.

The eighteen disputes ranged from the 15,000 idle at the Consolidated Steel Company plant, Orange, Tex., through such firms as Westinghouse Electric (12,000), the H. C. Frick Coke Co., Pittsburgh (7,500), and the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Co., Detroit (4,500).

Other disturbances involved numbers from 25 upward to 1,500. The 25 strikers were at the Oklahoma Rendering Co., Oklahoma City, while the 1,500 was duplicated in several other places.

The Ford recall came after company officials announced they had arranged for alternative sources of supply when the strike at Kelsey-Hayes interfered with the supply of parts for 1946 cars. Some 8,500 Ford workers remained idle elsewhere from the same cause.

The Westinghouse strike, a new addition to the labor scene, was voted by members of the federation of Westinghouse independent salaried unions covering white collar workers in nine cities. Bonuses and incentive pay rates were the issues.

Another major walkout kept 780 foremen and 15,000 other workers idle at the six B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. plants in Akron, O.

Woman Dies After Kane Auto Crash
Kane, Sept. 10.—(P)—Anna Zubrich, 65-year-old Orrville, O., woman, climbed out of her car after it had skidded off the road on a curve Saturday and exclaimed: "I'm lucky, I didn't get a scratch."

A few seconds later she was dead. Coroner Ralph Mimm said the woman was fatally hurt when another car rounded the curve and struck her and injured Mrs. Sarah Groves and her daughter, Joan, both of R. D. I. Kane.

Two other accidents in the Kane district sent two people to the hospital. Five-year-old John Slater, of Roystown, suffered fracture of the skull and possible internal injuries when he was hit by an auto along the Sheffield-Ludlow road.

Carl Dahl, 67, of Sheffield, was seriously injured, Kane hospital attendants reported, when two trucks collided near here.

Mrs. McKinney Visibly Affected By Words of Prosecuting Attorney At Opening Session

EXAMINING WITNESSES

District Attorney Joseph H. Goldstein did not ask for the death penalty for Adeline McKinney, charged with the slaying of her husband Wendell McKinney on Monday, July 16. Instead he asked the jury to render a verdict of murder commensurate with the evidence which the Commonwealth would unfold for the jury. It was a strong address and well done.

Coroner Ed. C. Lowrey was the chief witness for the Commonwealth and he was on the stand when court adjourned. Tomorrow, Mr. Lowrey stated flatly that Mrs. McKinney stated to him when he went to the home following the death of McKinney at the Warren General Hospital "I have shot Wendell."

Lowrey stated that she continued and said "When he came home this evening he went up to take a bath and I followed him upstairs and into the bathroom. I said to him 'Let's forget the whole thing'. Then I said to him 'my jaw is sore from where you hit me last night' and he said 'if you don't shut up I'll make the other one sore'."

"Then I said 'I suppose you are going out with your girl friend tonight' and he said 'shut up'."

"Then I went into the bedroom, got the gun and came back and shot him."

Lowrey further testified that Mrs. McKinney showed him marks left on her neck from Sunday night and she said "We were fighting heavily Sunday night. It was over a woman. He tried to choke me and held by head under his pillow and threatened to shoot me."

"I was afraid that he was trying to get rid of me and take my children so that he could marry somebody else. Once he hit me in the eye."

There was a large crowd in the courtroom this morning and they breathlessly followed every word of the testimony. Mrs. McKinney sat with her counsel and listened intently and several times dropped her eyes and once she covered her eyes with her hand. A large floor plan of the wreckage of the car was carried 180 feet from the crossing and was badly wrecked, the deputy coroner said.

Both men were about 60 years old.

Lord Plant Back In Owners' Hands
Erie, Sept. 10.—(P)—The Lord Manufacturing Co. plant seized by the government October 25, the result of a price dispute in manufacturing naval aircraft parts, returns to the Lord Co. at 12:01 p. m. today.

This was the result of an agreement signed in Washington Saturday by H. Strine Hensel, assistant secretary of the navy, and Thomas Lord, company vice-president.

The agreement stipulated that Lt. Com. N. H. Collinson, former naval executive officer in charge of the plant, will have access to the plant and records to enable him to finish details in connection with contract work.

Collinson said today, "The navy has produced appreciably more than $10,000,000 worth of products while supervising the plant since Oct. 25."

The exact future of the plant was unknown, according to Lord. A skeleton force is working in most of the shops.

Motor Yawl "Lady Grace" In Port Here On Saturday

The motor yawl "Lady Grace," four days and from Olean enroute to Pittsburgh, arrived in Warren at 4:30 p. m. on Saturday, one day behind schedule due to the prevalence of fog on the upper river which delayed departure each morning until ten o'clock. Capt. Fred Way reported that little difficulty was encountered in negotiating the many riffles, despite the fact that the Allegheny was at a very low stage. The navigators were greeted from the shore above the concrete bridge by H. C. Putnam and were guided to a mooring place under the bridge on the South Side.

After spending four nights sleeping in the open on gravel bars on the river, the hardy mariners were prone to accept an invitation to resume the ways of civilization. Engines, stores and camping paraphernalia were loaded on a station wagon and after doffing his boots and other river togs in favor of shore apparel, Capt. Way and Lieut. Rutter were taken by Mr. Putnam to Russell, another famous port of by-gone days, to spend the evening discussing the favorite topic of all rivermen and river lovers, "the river."

Sunday morning the visitors were given a view of the Conewango valley as far as Green's bridge, after which they were driven to Warren where the boat was loaded and departure effected at one p. m. Several river-minded Warrenties were on hand to give them a sendoff on their 192 mile trip to Pittsburgh, the third such trip for Captain Way. The voyagers were sorry that the delay in arrival and the necessity for making up lost time prevented them from meeting more of the local navigating enthusiasts. While here Capt. Way strongly reiterated his belief that the Allegheny river should be further improved for navigation by the construction of locks and dams up to Olean; that this section of country is far more entitled to the benefits of water transportation than are many other sections which have already benefited from such improvements. He is firmly convinced that if the industrial and other interests of Northwestern Pennsylvania and Southwestern New York will sufficiently bestir themselves a portion of the money that is bound to be appropriated by congress for post-war navigation improvements can and will be secured for further slackwatering of the Allegheny, the largest unimproved stream east of the Rocky Mountains, flowing through a region ripe for great industrial and recreational development.

Plans Made For Meeting Of Scouters

Program plans for the fall meeting of the Warren County Council, scheduled for 7:30 p. m. this evening in the small court room at the Court House, are now complete. It was learned this morning at the local Boy Scout office.

The speaker will be Mr. Harold Lewman, of Philadelphia, Regional Scout executive. This will mark Mr. Lewman's first visit to the local council since he assumed the responsibilities of his present position on March 1st this year. Previously, he had served as the Regional Executive of Region VIII with headquarters in Kansas City, Mo.

The reports of the Council's Operating committees will be made by Leo Glesse, Scout commissioner; N. D. Patterson, treasurer; T. E. Sponser, chairman of the leadership training committee; W. M. Hill, vice-chairman of the Scout advancement committee; W. E. Yeager, chairman of finance committee; H. A. Otterson chairman of the health and safety committee; B. W. Knapp, chairman of the camping and activities committee; Henry Ledebur, chairman of the Jelfmore committee; and C. C. Winsans, chairman of the organization and extension committee.

Tonight's meeting will attract a large delegation of Scouters including members of the Executive Board, members of operating committees, and delegates elected to the council by the churches and other organizations now using the Scouting program.

It is expected the meeting will launch a vigorous program of fall activity among the present Scouting Units and a renewed effort toward the extension of the movement to reach an ever increasing number of boys in the area served by the council.

McKinney Jury Paid Visit To The Scene of Fatal Shooting

Members of the jury which will hear the murder trial of Mrs. Adeline McKinney charged with the fatal shooting of her husband Wendell McKinney on July 16 at their Youngville home visited the home Saturday. The tiresome task of selecting a jury to hear the evidence in the case was finished Saturday morning with the seating of Ray E. Hamilton, Columbus township and Carl A. Ryberg, of Sheffield as the two alternate jurors. These two were picked from a second special panel of prospective jurors summoned by Sheriff L. E. Linder and his deputies.

At the conclusion of the work of selecting a jury Judge Allison Wade discharged all other jurors in attendance at court and also all other cases which were on the September list.

Judge Wade also received from the council for the defense a petition for a view of the premises at Youngville which will be referred to in the trial. This was granted by the judge and transportation was arranged for the Court, attorneys and the jurors. The group left the court house at 1:30 and spent most of the afternoon at the McKinney home. They had been cautioned not to touch, handle or move any article in the home and these instructions were carefully carried out.

An incident of the jury examination Friday afternoon was the disqualifying of one juror from any jury service for life. The juror during questioning by Attorney W. I. Glassman stated that he had a fixed opinion and then on questioning by the court admitted that his opinion was due to the fact that he did not care to serve in the case. Under such an admission it became mandatory that Judge Wade take the action, which he did.

The task of selecting the jury was a long drawn out one as the original panel of 104 names was exhausted; another of 20 names was also exhausted and a third of 40 names was needed to fill the jury box.

The jury was sworn in by Clerk of Courts Addison White Saturday morning.

Bronze Medal Given Widow Of War Hero

Corydon, Sept. 7.—From the Adjutant General's office, War Department, Washington, D. C., came the following to Mrs. Irene Whyte of this community:

Dear Mrs. Whyte: I have the to inform you that, by direction of the president, the bronze Star Medal has been posthumously awarded to your husband, Staff Sergeant James C. Whyte, Infantry. The citation is as follows:

"For heroic achievement in action on 14 April, 1945, in the Apennine mountains of Italy. Directing his heavy machine gun squad in affording best possible support for the lead company of mountain infantrymen in an assault on a strongly defended mountainous position, Staff Sergeant Whyte reached the crest of the ridge and along with the most forward elements, was pinned down by the devastating intensity of enemy artillery, mortar, and sniper fire which caused several casualties. Seeing two of his men wounded by this concentrated fire, lying in an exposed area, he made his way out during the height of the barrage to administer immediate first aid treatment, thus saving much suffering and even life. Throughout this action, he exhibited a high regard for the welfare of his men and the next day continuing to lead his men with the same superior leadership and tactical ability, he was struck by fragments from an exploding enemy shell and died almost at once. This exceptionally fine performance under the most difficult condition affords all his men the highest inspiration, and the heroic courage and true devotion to the full completion of all assignments displayed by Staff Sergeant Whyte are of the finest qualities of the United States Army."

The decorations will be forwarded to the commanding general, Third Service Command, Baltimore, Maryland, who will select an officer to make the presentation. The officer selected will communicate with you concerning your wishes in the matter. May I again express my deepest sympathy to you in your bereavement. Signed, The Adjutant General.

Columbus Is Seeking Funds Truck House

Columbus, Sept. 10.—A special committee from the group of Columbus men interested in organization of a volunteer fire department with adequate equipment is this week making a canvass throughout the township to ascertain what donations of funds would be available toward the purchase of equipment. This committee includes Merle Dodd, James Hanks and Warlo Morris and they will report at the third meeting on the subject which is to be held next Tuesday evening.

At this week's session additional consideration was given to the offer of the used pumper equipment for sale at Jamestown at what was considered a reasonable price but the necessity for booster tank equipment because of conditions existing in the township was emphasized and equipment was being considered which would include tank capacities of up to 500 gallons.

In connection with the securing of a needed building for headquarters, it was found that a new structure would probably cost as much as $5,000, but the township supervisors have been considering the sale of their present property and the construction of larger quarters and this may possibly be made available for the proposed fire headquarters at a reasonable figure.

Arthur Hill presided at this week's meeting and a general discussion of the entire problem was held. It was urged that all residents of the township attend the next session Tuesday evening when reports from the finance group and from other committees now checking on equipment of various types will be presented.

Youngville Cooperative Meets Tonight

Youngville, Sept. 10.—Ellis Martin of Youngville, committee chairman, announced today that the annual meeting of members of the Youngville Cooperative C. L. F. Service will open at 8:30 p. m. in the Brokenstraw Grange Hall at Youngville.

Two members of the Patrons' Committee will be selected, to succeed Chairman Martin and Axel Johnson, both of Youngville, whose terms expire. Committee members whose terms continue are Ira Johnson and Elsworth Wilson, both of Sugar Grove; D. W. Mourer and Archie Jackson, both of Youngville.

Charter members will tell what happened when their regional cooperative—the Cooperative Grange League Federation Exchange which now serves more than 150,000 farm families in New York, New Jersey and Northern Pennsylvania—was started 25 years ago. District Manager W. Wheeler will highlight the past 25 years, and a full report on the last year's operations will be given. "What will we do next?" will be a topic for an open forum discussion.

Memorial At South Street

Friday afternoon, pupils and teachers of South Street school held a very impressive memorial service for their former principal, Miss Mae Moran, who had served them so faithfully for so many years.

Miss Florence Hill read the script and offered a prayer, and the entire assembly sang "Onward Christian Soldiers," one of Miss Moran's favorite hymns. A copy of the school board resolution in Miss Moran's memory was also read.

Two other favorite hymns were sung by the boys and girls of the fifth and sixth grades. Miss Eva Corbin gave many interesting remarks about Miss Moran's life. She also read an appropriate farewell poem in closing.

THE STORY OF THE ATOM

No. 5: Paving the Way for the Atomic Bomb

(1) Studying the apparently constant source of energy given off by radioactive elements, Albert Einstein in 1905 brought forth a startling formula. With the formula, he demonstrated that matter—solid material that you can hold in your hand, lift, measure, weigh or break into bits—could be transformed into energy. A small amount of matter could produce an enormous amount of energy. The magnitude of the energy was in the ratio of the weight of material in grams times the square of the speed of light, 30,000,000,000 centimeters per second, or 186,000 miles a second.

(2) Exploring more deeply into the cause of radioactivity, Sir William

Ramsey, Sir Ernest Rutherford, Frederick Soddy and T. R. Roys, British scientists, discovered that the radiation consisted of alpha and beta particles and gamma rays. Alpha particles were atoms of the gas helium charged with positive electricity. Beta particles were negative electrons or particles of high speed electricity. Gamma rays were a form of invisible light like X-rays that could travel through a heavy sheet of lead. The helium atoms were stopped by a thin sheet of aluminum foil, while the electrons went through a sheet of aluminum but were stopped by the lead.

(3) Scientists started to draw a picture of the atom. When they explored inside the atom, all solid material vanished. Atoms of copper, iron, carbon, and the other chemical elements were not solid chunks of material at all, but charges existing in empty space. Sir Ernest Rutherford made the first picture of the atom. It was something like our solar system, with the sun as the heart or nucleus of the atom with its charge of positive electricity, and the planets around it as the electrons.

(4) Gradually over the years a more complete picture of the atom was developed. The simplest atom is that of hydrogen gas, the lightest of the known chemical elements. Its nucleus is a single proton, or positive charge of electricity. One electron travels around it. The two are held together by mutual attraction. Next in order of simplicity is the atom of helium, the non-inflammable gas used in dirigibles. Its heart consists of two protons and two neutrons. Two electrons travel around the nucleus, as shown in the diagrams above. A neutron is a neutral particle without electric charge. The more complex atoms, such as those of lead, radium and uranium, have many neutrons and protons in their hearts. Dr. Neils Bohr, a student of Rutherford's, had much to do with the development of atomic theory.

THE TRUMAN APPROACH

The program for peacetime prosperity which President Truman presented to Congress could scarcely be called atomic. Yet it was a bit of a bombshell which touched off some immediate explosions. Its effect will surely be felt in new ways and in new places for months to come. And the extent to which it is followed, altered or abandoned by Congress will have a decisive effect upon our history.

The program is scarcely an air-tight, copper-riveted plan, charting undeviating and uncontradictory courses toward a multitude of goals. Thus it can't safely be hailed or cursed in its entirety. Nor is there space to give detailed consideration to all its points. So perhaps it may be enough for the moment to comment upon its tone and emphasis.

This was Mr. Truman's first peacetime message to Congress. It included a continuation and even extension of some long-cherished New Deal policies. But the presentation was not one that would have been used by the late President Roosevelt, author of the New Deal.

Mr. Truman's tone was cheerful and confident. It showed a nice balance of modesty and authority. The President addressed Congress as a partner and an equal.

It is not unlikely that some of Congress' most vigorous anti-New Dealers were deceived on first hearing by the President's mild and amenable presentation of his program. It might have required a more detailed study to convince them that their hopes for Mr. Truman's domestic conservatism were obviously vain.

Take, for example, his request for passage of the full employment bill. He minimized the role of government and government spending, the measure's core of controversy. He emphasized government's "ultimate" duty to use its resources if other means fail to prevent "prolonged" unemployment.

"Full employment," said Mr. Truman, "means full opportunity for all under the American economic system—nothing more and nothing less. . . . It does not mean made work, or making people work. . . . Full employment means opportunity to reduce the ratio of public spending to private investment without sacrificing essential services."

Probably some opponents of the Murray-Wagner Full Employment Bill felt a little more kindly toward it after reading Mr. Truman's interpretation.

None of this comment is intended to accuse Mr. Truman of hypocrisy or deception. His record thus far shows that he has a way of saying what he means. It is evident that, though he rightly recognizes his power and responsibility, he does not regard himself as the final authority. His nature seems to welcome the achievement of objectives by compromise and friendly co-operation. That is a trait for which the country may have reason to be grateful in the future.

A MEDAL FOR MR. HOPKINS

A lot of people in this country don't like Harry Hopkins. A lot more don't know precisely what his role in government has been during the past decade. But we imagine there are few who would begrudge him his recent honor.

Mr. Hopkins has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for "services of outstanding value to the United States of America from December, 1941, to July, 1945." He was long the confidant, adviser and go-between for President Roosevelt in relations with top officials in Washington and the heads of foreign governments.

He helped disburse the fruits of American war production as chairman of the Munitions Assignment Board, and engineered some presumably delicate negotiations as head of the President's Soviet Protocol Committee.

After Mr. Roosevelt's death he put himself at President Truman's disposal, went to Moscow and, it seems safe to say, helped break some of the dams of Russian opposition which for a time threatened to wreck the San Francisco Conference.

Through most of these activities Mr. Hopkins was a very sick man. He wasn't a rich man and he received a relatively modest salary. He might have retired from his semi-public life which brought him a great deal of public censure. But he stuck to the jobs assigned him by two presidents. And the first public recognition of his service to the nation is undoubtedly deserved.

Times-Mirror
Warren, Pa.

Dear Sir:
With the official announcement of V-J Day, I want to take this means of thanking you for the co-operation you have given the Third Service Command since the beginning of the war. I would like to express this appreciation personally, but in view of the many tasks which still confront us in the military area of Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia, such is not possible.

The newspapers in this area have given their space and the radio stations have contributed time—both in generous proportions—to permit us to convey our many messages to the public. You may be assured your help has not gone unnoticed.

I wish also to mention again the invitation extended through my Public Relations Officer in his letter of 20 July for you to visit any of our installations, and to call on us at any time for assistance. The offer stands. If you find it more convenient to get in touch with our district or field offices, there is attached for your information a list of the District Public Relations Officers who are prepared to cooperate with you as my representative.

Thank you again for your kindnesses, and with best personal wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,

"This is the way it used to be," we thought as the starter whirled and the motor grudgingly caught hold. "This is the way it used to be before gas rationing, before the war. Three and a half years ago . . . forty-four months ago . . . a little chunk of a lifetime. Not such a little chunk, either, when you remember that the whole of life is only a little chunk, too. A good many people have died in those forty-four months . . . a good many have been hopelessly maimed . . . a good many have grown old. Everyone—we, ourselves—have changed." Curious unbidden thoughts, bubbling through that Percolator known as the Brain as the motor settles into silky acquiescence, the westmost bricks of Pennsylvania Avenue slide eastward under the wheels, and we are off on a sentimental journey, after forty-four months.

Youngsville, Grand Valley, Oil City, Franklin . . . The damp cold of early morning is thinning a bit. Here is Mercer, a small town on a hillside; old-fashioned buildings; handsome, unmodernized homes. We used to have friends in Mercer; that redoubtable old attorney, Quincy Gordon; that stalwart once-Congressman, Tom Cochran. A memory trickles through the Percolator. The place is a rocky island in the French River, summer of 1922 or 23. To that remote Ontario spot, word has just flashed of the death of President Harding. Members of the Club, cottagers from remote camps on the River, have gathered in the Assembly Room. In measured tones Quincy Gordon is delivering an oration in memory of the dead President. Tom Cochran and his family are there. "As great as Washington or Lincoln . . . one of our greatest Americans. . . . Well, maybe Quincy made a few concessions to the proprieties of the occasion. Just a ragtag of memory. Mercer is behind us now, remote-seeming as always, a dream town in red brick on top of its hill.

Here is Sharon. Not an ingratiating city, but once the residence of other French River companions, the Whitlacs. The son, "Billy" Whitla, was the central figure in a once-famous kidnapping case. I can remember, as a little boy of eight, staring at the headlines, at the picture of a towheaded boy of eight in a gray sweater. (I had a gray sweater, too; I was towheaded; and I was also called "Billy.") It all seemed a remarkable coincidence. Sharon, Pa., suddenly center of world attention. "Son of Prominent Attorney Kidnaped . . . Police in Nationwide Hunt for Billy Whitla . . . Billy Whitla Found in Hollenden Hotel, Cleveland . . . Kidnapers Confess . . ." Strange to have identified myself as a child with Billy Whitla. Strange to have known him as a young man fifteen years later. Strange, now, to realize he has been dead for years. Only his mother and sister remain of the original Whitlacs; and they no longer live in Sharon, we have heard.

The hills tread lightly, and more lightly. "This is Ohio now, Andy." Youngstown—let's get out of here quick! Yes, this is Ohio; flat, rich. The hills are gone, and the darkness of the evergreen. The clear rivers and streams are gone. The roughness, the coolness, the wildness of Pennsylvania are gone. To right and left, ahead and behind, the cornfields stretch in limitless perspective. This is the Land of Corn; corn eight, nine, ten feet tall. This is Ohio, bland, fertile, faintly misty in the late-July heat.

No. I'm afraid the word "heat" squirmed through the Percolator with a literary slipperiness. Matter of fact, it is chilly still. Our car windows are almost closed as we slip along, enjoying mild Ohio and our Percolations. ("Think of having all the gasoline you want; of being able to drive along without a mental eye on the gas tank and a periodic twinge in the conscience. The war's over—can't you remember?" Fatteries of thought go on, even when the circumstances that created them have vanished. Two hundred miles have flowed under our respectful tires. They'd better be respectful after four years of registered-nursing.) Marion, Ohio, coming up. "This is where President Harding lived, Andy" . . . Who was he? . . . "He was President back in 1920." . . . "Was he a good President?" . . . "Hi-m-m!" . . . Cogent question. "Well, you see, he . . ." We dig our toes into the conversational turf in a quick change of pace, suddenly realizing that, to a seven-year-old, it is a foregone conclusion that merely to be an American President is of necessity to be good and great. Before the straight, simple thinking of childhood we squirm in adult ethical shame.

"This was President Harding's house. See the iron fence with the locked gate? See the rambling front porch with its out-jutting circle like a natural rostrum? This was the scene of the Famous Front-Porch Campaign."

"What's a Front-Porch Campaign?"

"Well, you see . . ." But street-crossings flow faster than history. Here is the Harding Memorial. Worth spending a few minutes to see. Indeed, one of the most beautiful of all memorials, we think, as we look into the circular interior with its mournful tree and its deep ground-cover of ivy; at the sincere lines of the columns; at the massive, simple beauty of the gravestones. Strange, the shoddy, befuddled President; and this, his superb memorial.

A quick swing to the southwest; into the tiny town of Richwood, presently. A somnolent example of American Indiana; the kind of town whose gauche shabbiness is dear to the modern painters; whose architectural monstrosities are covered now with the patina of charm one finds in an ugly antique chair. The town is full of red-faced, rough, friendly farmers. One of them buys five packets of chewing tobacco. From the window of a real estate office we learn that good Ohio farmland is selling for more than one hundred dollars per acre. A single farm is advertised for sale at $60,000. Gosh, these farms are industries! We look with new comprehension at the sunburned, expectorating entrepreneurs of these food-factories. A miracle dinner of steak and wonderful vegetables in a hole-in-the-wall; and we are off again for Bellefontaine.

Episcopal Church Members Studying Mission Activities

The Rev. Beecher M. Rutledge, rector of Trinity Memorial Episcopal church here, is highly delighted with the response of his church members to the appeal of the national church organization to study the various mission fields in preparation for the raising of a sum of $5,000,000 or more for reconstruction and advance needs and opportunities growing out of the war.

Each month Episcopal church people have been asked to study a different part of their church's world work. Already the Philippine Islands and China have been studied. For September the study is to be of the remarkable work of the American Church Institute for Negroes, sponsored by the Episcopal church. The institute is made up of nine schools in the southern states. Five are high schools with agricultural, industrial, and normal training, some with junior college grades; one is a college, fully accredited; one is a theological seminary for the training of Negro clergymen; and there is a College Student Center at Port Valley State College, Fort Valley, Ga.

Information received by Mr. Rutledge from his church headquarters indicates that the study plan started well in May, grew rapidly in June. There was a vacation period in July and August, and now there is every indication that the study, on a really intensive basis, is practically universal with the September schedule, so that the vast majority of Episcopal church people—over two million of them—are engaged in learning about their church's program of work in education, social relations, healing, and evangelism in all parts of the world.

Episcopal church officials claim that when this study is completed, church people will be "better educated in the business of their own church than they have ever been before," and they believe that with knowledge will come appreciation of the tremendous opportunities confronting Christian people in all parts of the world, both now, and following the coming of peace.

Minister Is Returned Here

A five-day meeting of the Oil City Conference of the Free Methodist church closed Sunday in Pleasantville, with Bishop Charles V. Fairbairn, of McPherson, Kans.,

SAYS SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE:

Despite Victory Used Fat Saving Must Go On!

Every woman in America should know that our country continues to face a serious fat shortage. And victory over Japan won't solve the problem immediately. We must keep on saving used fats in our kitchens!

If you have any thought that saving used fats is one of those wartime chores we can drop, now that Victory is here, please consider these facts and tell them to your neighbors.

America still needs salvaged fats. Not even at the peak of our war effort, when fats were required for mountains of shells and bombs and medicines, in addition to the ever-present need for soap, were our needs for salvaging fat greater than now. Our stocks have been drained by four long years of war, and there isn't enough on hand to meet all requirements.

Don't let "Victory psychology" blind you to this national need! If housewives stop saving fats now, the shortage will become even more critical.

Don't let a single drop of used fats go to waste! Little trimmings of fat left on plates, even the skimmings of soups and gravies are important. It is the consistent saving of these small amounts that counts.

Don't turn in fats that can be re-used! But some fats, such as those rendered from lamb and mutton, are not suitable for re-use. Put them immediately in the salvage can. And, with other fats, after you've got all cooking good out of them, there is always a little left. No matter how little it is, save it.

Your butcher will still give you 4c and 2 red points for every pound you turn in. Save consistently—save every drop you can—every day—until Uncle Sam says the job is done.

HIGH SCHOOLERS OVERPOWER WEAK KANE ELEVEN, 27-7

Jim Scalise Crosses Goal Three Times, Bonace Once; Kane Scores On Aerial Plays

Using a repetition of "hit the line" tactics, Coach J. B. Leidig's Warren Dragons grinders pounded out a 27-7 victory over Kane's Wolves Saturday afternoon at Russell Field for the locals' second win three starts. Fullback Jimmy Scalise paced the Dragon attack, tallying three touchdowns during the game.

After Kane won the toss, Bonace kicked to the Wolves on their own 29, and for the next few minutes it looked like "curtains" for the Blue and White bearers. "Buck" Byham, Kane's veteran signal-caller, let loose with a 35-yard aerial to Hank Weiser which sent the Wolves into Dragon territory in the opening minutes of play. Before the Wolves could advance closer to the goal, however, the Dragon line settled down and stopped the Kane attack dead. Byham kicked to quarterback Louise Bonace on the twenty, returning the pigskin to Warren's 37, and starting a smash to Kane's goal. Four successive line plays gave the locals a first down and Bonace hurled a 20-yard pass to halfback Dave Lopez on Kane's own 24.

Louise Bonace went over with the first score when Scalise sent an 11-yard pass to him on the seven and he went the remaining distance for the initial touchdown. Frank Shanshala bucked the line as the Dragons moved out in front on a 7-0 count.

The Dragons just missed a second scoring opportunity in the final minutes of the opening stanza. End Al McNally recovered a blocked Kane punt on the Wolves' 31, but the Dragons lost possession immediately on a pass interception, the quarter ending shortly afterward.

The majority of the play was in Kane territory as the Dragons hovered constantly near the goal. The Bonace-Scalise duo again continued to work out exceedingly well, both carrying the ball a great deal of the game. Frankie Shanshala and Dave Lopez also shared in the groundwork honors. Kane's only score came early in the second quarter after Scalise had quick-kicked to Pete Colella on his own 38 and returned to the Dragon 45. Three running plays gave the Wolves a first down and the ball on Warren's 54 when Byham uncorked two beautiful aerials to Jackie Carson to send the losers as far as the Dragon eight-yard stripe. Byham scored the lone six-pointer on a sweep around his own left end, making the score stand at 7-6. Byham plunged for the point to tie the game.

The Dragons scored their second tally just a few minutes before the mid-time whistle after Bob Gerardi had recovered a bad Kane center on the Wolves' 12. Jimmy Scalise, on the first play, plunged for five, then bulldozed through a weak Kane line for the second touchdown, his first out of three in the game. Al McNally went over for the point on a line left, putting Warren out in front once again, 14-7.

Early in the third period the Dragons sent the third touchdown across. After a series of exchange punts, Warren took the ball on the opponents' 31, and three plunges put the oval on

Three Weeks Remain in AL Race; Nats Down White Sox Twice as Detroit Wins, Ties

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

The hectic American League flag race entered the final three weeks of this season today with the first place Detroit Tigers only one game ahead of the persistent Washington Senators following yesterday's double triumph by the Nats and a victory and tie by the Bangs. Mickey Haefer, sturdy little southpaw, had little trouble annexing his 16th victory in a 4-2 opening triumph for Washington over the White Sox. But Santiago Urich had to come to the rescue of the fellow latin elbow, Alex Carrasquel in the nightcap to eke out a 5-4 decision for Ossie Bluege's men.

The Tigers also were forced to stage late inning rallies to vanquish the Boston Red Sox in the first and obtain a 3-3 11-inning tie in the second. A two-run homer by Rudy York in the eighth for Detroit forced the finale to go into overtime before darkness intervened.

The feverish National League title chase remained at a stalemate when the top-perched Chicago Cubs and the second rung St. Louis Cardinals each swept their twin all leaving the Bruins still three and a half games in front.

The Cubs made short work of

K. of C. Opens Bowling League Fri. at Arcade

The K. of C. will open the bowling season Friday night, September 14, at the Arcade Recreation alleys promptly at seven o'clock with a six-team league, four of the teams to bowl at seven on Friday and the remaining two at nine o'clock.

The schedule for the opening night sends Fordham against Santa Clara, Duquesne against Notre Dame, and St. Marys against Holy Cross. All members are requested to be prompt.

One-third of the area of the United States is forested.

the Braves as Ray Prim and Claude Passeau, in rare form prostrated the Hubmen 9-1 and 4-0. Prime's five-hitter was his 12th triumph while Passeau registered his 16th with a superb three-hit shutout.

The Redbirds had to win their hard way. After coming from behind to sneak in with the openers 6-4, they made it two successive one-run decisions over the New York Yankees at the Yankee Stadium, and practically eliminate the Bronxites from any flag consideration.

In the other twin-bills, Cincinnati came from behind twice to win both contests from Brooklyn 6-3 and 6-4, needing 10 innings to take the first. Al Lakeman drove in the winning run in both contests. The Phils and Pirates split. After Walter (Boom-Boom) Beck gained his sixth straight triumph for Pittsburgh 4-3 in the opener, Phils jumped on three Buc nurlers for 24 hits and a 14-3 decision in the nightcap.

Behind the Lines

It has been rumored that Corry High School will enter Section Two of District Ten in the PIAA basketball league this year. If the rumor comes true, it may put a black mark on the league's very commendable functions of the past years. If you will remember correctly, the Corry Bears were politely "kicked out" of the Erie County basketball League during the 1944-5 season because, after a meeting of the league's coaches, the attitude and playing tactics of the Corry players was termed "disgraceful and detrimental to the league." According to reports last season, there was plenty of truth in that statement.

Corry "blew its top" last year when Jack Tison, invaded the small town with intention of making the small town a second Massillon, O. sports boom, but something went wrong and the situation changed. Last season's Corry football team was exceptionally good for the town's size, and this year's eleven was supposed to have been a "crackerjack." But "too many hands in the broth spoiled the soup."

It will be a tough year for Corry. "Red" Lytle, who has taken over at the helm of the Beaver setup, Corry fans expect a lot more from their previous efforts than they will get.

Warren has as a visitor for the past few days a national sports figure, but few people realize of just what importance this man is in the basketball world. "Bud" Jeanette, who started his professional career here in Warren with the H-V's Oils and later went on to Cleveland, Detroit, and now Fort Wayne, ranks as the No. 1 court star in the country. When the local outfit broke up and went to Cleveland under the title of "White Horses," Jeanette continued with the team, and later went to Detroit's Eagles, who played the Warren Pattersons at Beatty School a number of winter's ago. From there, Jeanette went to Fort Wayne's Zollners, not only playing basketball but working in the off-

Eagles Lose 27-0 Encounter to JHS

Artie Amann's Youngsville Eagles suffered their second defeat in as many starts last Saturday at Wilder Field when a much heavier and stronger Johnsonburg High lashed out a 27-0 victory.

Both teams pounded back and forth in the first half, the J.H.S. eleven holding a 7-0 lead at the mid-way mark. But in the third, the visitors scored again and twice in the final stanza. Clarence Jones, Eagle fullback, and "Dink" Lottson, halfback, sparked the Eagles' field attack.

Next Saturday, the Eagles renew their ancient rivalry with Sheffield's Wolverines on Wilder Field at 2:30. Saturday's game will open Sheffield's 1945 season.

season as a personnel man with the company. For the past two consecutive years, the ex-Warrenite has been named the most outstanding and the most valuable player in the National Professional Basketball League, an honor which very few achieve.

HERE AND THERE: Twenty teams will enter the Elks League alley race for the coming season, with first balls rolling next Sunday afternoon... When Erie East and Erie Tech meet on the gridiron, you can expect one of the most bitter rivalries ever held in Erie. Both teams are boasting extremely powerful elevens, East recording a 46-0 win over Corry Friday and Tech trouncing Mercer, 52-0. Our guess is on Erie East... Both Red Wollaston and Dave Lopez, stocky mail-carrier, has two years left to play for the Blue and White... The YMCA basketball court will not be open for another month yet. Concrete has just been laid prior to installing an entirely new playing floor and it will take a month's time for the concrete to set properly... Keep posted on the proposed war memorial stadium. If you haven't heard Bill Rice speak on the matter, do so.

Instructions not to resist the Nazis. It was through his agency that German troops were introduced into Norway's harbors in the holds of coal and freight ships, the prosecution asserted.

Thus undermined, Norway's defense quickly collapsed.

After Germany had taken possession of the country, Quisling cooperated with the Germans in a policy of deportation and oppression that resulted in the deaths of hundreds of Jews and patriots, it was charged.

Throughout, Quisling contended he cooperated with the Germans to avoid a worse fate for his country.

In his final plea, he declared he stood before the court as "Quisling the patriot."

Merchants Lay Plans For Post-War Business Locally

Now that the war is over, what? The question is many-sided. The Committee for Economic Development is at work on the problem. The meeting to be held in the Court House on Wednesday evening is for all those who are engaged in Retail Distribution, Construction or Services of any kind. An employers' check sheet for a preliminary estimate of post-war employment will be distributed at the meeting. The answers the employers fill in will be an important contribution to Warren's post-war plans. L. Jerome Wolcott of Philadelphia, Regional Manager of the Committee for Economic Development will be the speaker and will explain the program to be followed.

Fundamentally the future of Warren so far as its retailers is concerned boils down to selling more and better goods and services to more customers, at prices they can afford to pay. Post-war has introduced new production technique. Fresh post-war competition will call for new selling methods. New goods will elbow the older lines for space on dealers' shelves. Customers' buying habits may undergo radical changes. Each of these developments raises a question in itself: how can the retailer meet it to his own greatest advantage? The post-war era of which business has talked since early 1943 is here, to be dealt with. The individual merchant, and the neighborhood merchandising groups who postpone taking action too long, will find business going elsewhere.

Through the Committee for Economic Development, comprehensive plans are being developed to assist merchants and all companies interested in wholesale and retail distribution.

All proprietors of commercial concerns, whatever their nature, should make it a point to be present at the meeting Wednesday evening.

Farm Labor Office Asks Cooperation

It has been estimated that 300 tons of elderberries could be saved in Warren county if a real effort is made to harvest this valuable fruit. The Emergency Farm Labor office is appealing to the schools and Boy Scouts to help do the picking. In that 4 cents per pound is paid for the berries picked on the stems, few crops have greater net profit.

Put the berries in bushel baskets the following places before 6 p. m., starting next Tuesday and every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday thereafter:

Warren, 10 Market street; Russell, Yellow and Black store; Lander, Nelson & Swanson store; Wrightsville, Stowell Store; Youngsville, Clair Hendrickson, 222 W. Main street.

Remember: Four cents per pound—containers furnished. For further information contact C. C. Winans, Emergency Farm Labor Office.

Warren churches are a part. The third group to favor the union, the Pittsburgh Conference approved the merger with the United Brothers in Christ church. The vote, cast Saturday, was 124 to 2. Complete voting by all conferences is expected by next June.
